Seniors

A school is judged in large part by its seniors, even as a laboratory is judged by its products. The members of the class of 1966, then, are especially important, as the first class to fully experience the effects of experiments in education conducted at Central-University.

Because it is through attendance and participation in the working of this laboratory school that the person is formed, we feel the senior of 1966 to aptly represent the product of a laboratory reaction, shaped and directed but not overpowered by his school environment.

The following seniors merit commendation as examples of the quality that Central-University can produce...

DIANA CAPACIO, MCU's delegate to Girls' State, was its entry in the Elks' Most Valuable Student Contest. She is a member of NHS.

BETTY HARRIS also received National Merit Commendation and a journalism award as a senior. While a junior she joined NHS and took part in the Optomist Youth Week.

SUSAN KINNE, a member of NHS, won the Shaw Essay Prize, the American Legion Oratory Contest, and the Elks' Youth Leadership Contest. A Girls' State Alternate, she participated in the Herferth Speaking Contest and was a National Merit Finalist.

SCHOOL LIFE

Academics . . .

the most important aspect of a high school, are in a sense the first stage of the reaction it works in us. In classes, the medium, and with teachers, the catalysts, of this process, what seem narrow studies can acquire a broader and more lasting significance through techniques learned. It is a realization of these broadened applications, and a use of modern methods to attain them, that characterizes our laboratory school.

Administration

"With the explosion of knowledge in the world today, no pupil can hope to learn more than a foundation in each area he studies. His major responsibility is to learn how to learn, to develop the skills necessary to learn and an interest in learning. This means that schools must meet the needs of each pupil according to his abilities.

Pupils must learn by educating themselves. This can best be done by using a variety of approaches to education: large group instruction to save time and eliminate duplication; small group instruction to develop individual expression, analysis and reaction; and independent study to develop personal responsibility and study habits.

This year we have taken an additional step in this direction. The use of the Auditorium as a Learning Center, the Cafeteria as a Commons, more emphasis on independent study, and an honor system for all pupils has encouraged students to accept responsibility for their own education. Our work with the University of Wisconsin has made it possible for us to conduct many of these experiments in education."

Guidance

Robert Meyer

"Central-University's Guidance Program serves students' emotional, educational, and vocational needs through individual and group contacts.

Typical activities include helping students to draw up semester programs, to learn more about their strengths and weaknesses, to plan post-high school education, to improve study procedures, and to select a vocation.

Central's affiliation with the University provides more time and funds for guidance related research and experimentation. It also results in Central having more than the usual number of UW graduate students in Guidance serving on the staff. "

Mathematics

The past two years have seen two major changes in the teaching of math. The first, individual work, involves acceleration; four seniors are taking calculus "on the Hill" and several sophomores are working independently. The second trend is toward re-organization; an attempt has been made to group classes according to ability. Next year should see complete grouping...

Science

Kenneth Schroeder

Paul Derosé

The advent of independent study has had repercussions in science as much as any. Individual work in any of the physical sciences is encouraged in the Advanced Science class, a program which will be continued next year if there is sufficient interest. 1966-67 will also see substantial improvement in the Physical Science course which, with existing chemistry and PSSC physics, aims at providing a solid base in these fields.

English

One unusual characteristic of the English Department's expanding program is its age--the use of team teaching, for instance, has been developing for ten years. The impetus added by Central's new role has intensified this, extending it to greater use of tapes, interns, and independent study, reinforcing the philosophy of rational experimentation. MCU's 11th grade required speech class, unique in the city, the televising of some classes to the UW, and University financed research by teachers are but three more facets of this program.

Latin

A well-organized language program, making use of small classes at lower levels, new texts, and the latest equipment, is general throughout the city. Central benefits from these programs in French, German, Spanish and Latin, and has enlarged upon them in some areas, examples being the use of new text materials in the 1st and 2nd German classes and the French V class the first of its kind in the city (now being taught elsewhere). The emphasis of the department is on modern ideas, among them the concepts that more than two years of language is vital and that of the use of independent study, and upon modern equipment such as tapes, records, and the language laboratory.

Leona Kuster
German

Social Studies

Social studies seem to be specially flexible regarding use of time and facilities, and the department is utilizing this fact as much as possible. Team teaching, with variations on the large group-small group theme, is widely used. Independent study, linked to this, and specialized classes such as Russian History (the city's first such class) are establishing interschool and interdepartmental contacts and using the University's resources where possible, bringing a broader study of history.

Smile...

As no history student can help noticing, two television cameras stare down on him in Room 321. Little does he probably know what they observe. These cameras serve a closed circuit to the English and Social Studies Methodology and Educational Psychology classes at the University, in which presentation and student reaction are analyzed. Their different past uses--including broadcasts of "rigged" class scenes--may be expanded to encompass making video-tapes of teaching to be used in training and improving teachers.

Allied Arts

Foremost among MCU's exciting courses is Mr. Everard's three-year-old brainchild, Allied Arts. Of Wisconsin High origin, in its two years at Central this unique class has blended art and music history with its historical context, liberally spiced with field trips to Chicago, guest lecturers and performers, and other sidelights, and has received nationwide publicity. This year, in further expansion, normal audio-visual materials have been supplemented with a tape recorder in the Learning Center for individual study, for a more knowledgeable student.

Music

Independent study, a practice now being introduced into many departments for the first time, is far from new to music students. The traditional methods of teaching band, orchestra, chorus and choir consist of both large group and small group instruction, en masse and in sectionals, utilizing individual teaching as much as possible. The use of tapes and records, especially in choir, is quite usual. The department's approach, while seemingly unchanged is actually quite contemporary.

One new, lucrative, and rather well-known project made its debut in some girls' Phy. Ed. classes this year. Known as the Ryan Fund, it collects five cents from each gum-chewer caught in the act, and thanks to unbending enforcement, it is doing well.

Shifts in emphasis, new areas of study, and imaginative use of audio-visual materials have characterized the last few years in the "Home Ec" department. A pacing of material, concentrating on skills during the ninth through eleventh grades, and orienting students toward a survey course in the last three semesters, has lead to the introduction of new topics--Marriage and Family Living, for instance, now comprises a large part of the twelfth grade study. Slide projectors and filmstrip viewers (as Miss Roberts demonstrates above) have also enlarged areas covered by facilitating small group work. Presentations, once recorded, can be used at any time, leaving the instructor free to give individual help. The result of these changes is a Home Economics course fully relevant to modern life.

Industrial Arts

Harold Carlson

Lee Ackley

At MCU mixed-grade Industrial Arts classes have been oriented toward preparing each student for a college or non-college career through personal help from the teacher. In a sense aspects of the Title I program can be seen in the philosophy that special skills, necessary today, are a result of more independent work, dictated by student interest, and of help, freely given. In the eight Industrial Arts courses this is not a new idea--but the past year has brought a better understanding of how to put it into practice.

Title I is probably the most exciting of the educational experiments going on at Central this year. Financed by a Federal grant, it centers around the needs of the career-bound student by providing him with individualized instructions, counseling and guidance and employment orientation for later employment.

Any of the forty tenth and eleventh graders in Title I share some classes--homeroom, phy. ed., an elective--with all students. The remainder of his program, including English, social studies, reading, employment orientation, home economics or industrial arts, is taught by the Title I teachers. Throughout the program many first hand experiences are provided, including field trips and resource persons. Next year, with the first twelfth grade class, a work-study plan will be added, permitting the student to work while attending school. In this way, the graduating senior would have the employment orientation and work experience in addition to his general education program. This idea, of developing student skills in all areas, is an integral part of the experimental theory of education.

Activities

comprise the second of the three stages in the high school reaction. While perhaps trivial in the broad view, within the high school context they serve as another molding force, developing skills, stimulating transient or lasting interests, and providing a base for responsibility.

Activities change us, subtly or dramatically--and they too have their place in the laboratory school.

"In keeping with traditions of student government, the Student Council of MCU has played active roles in adjusting to the new system and in sampling and voicing student opinion on Central's closing. Projects, the successful operation of the Commons, and the co-hosting of the District V Convention were major activities. In capsule, the intention of this year's council was to encourage more action and interest from students through more effective organization within the group."

Homecoming

"This year's Homecoming, Pages of the Past, was hailed as one of the most successful in the history of Central homecomings. The festivities of October 8 and 9, including and Aud program, a reception for faculty and alumni, a bonfire, the football game, halftime festivities, and the dance, were the result of great effort on the part of the Homecoming Committee, which is actually a group of sub-committees supervised by the general and sub-chairmen. Each controls a separate phase of the program: reception, program, publicity, field, stage, and court."

Betty Harris

Pep

"MCU Forever!"-the motto of Pep Committee this year--represents the devotion and school spirit that the group promoted through posters, rallies, and transportation to out-of-town games. The co-chairmen of this crew were impressed by the response of the student body shown by loud and loyal cheering at the games and rallies as well as the more subtle devotion one can feel by talking to any one of Central's students. Just ask 'em!"

Holiday

"This year Holiday Committee decorated the halls with wreaths, stained glass windows, balloons, and a Hanukkah display for Christmas. It also conducted a drive to get ornaments for the two trees in the hall, and got lights for them. Holiday is also in charge of MCU's Dress-Up Day. Next year should be even more successful."

Diane Bystol
Chairman

Finance

"This year's Finance Committee, with an active membership of 25, has had charge of 6 basketball and football post game dances, in addition to sponsoring the Fall Mixer with Social Committee during the first week of school. 'Basin Street', this year's Midwinter Dance, was also a joint effort of Finance and Social Committees."

Peg Williams
Chairman

Ways And Means

"The goal of Ways and Means is to provide funds for two $100 scholarships offered by Student Council at the end of the year to a couple of graduating seniors. One year-long project for this purpose is the operation of a paperback bookstand which this year is located in the rear of the Aud. A second money-making activity for the committee is the selling of stationery and name labels. Short-term projects include selling pep-buttons and assisting at one of the Teachers' Conventions for which the group is paid a clerk's fee."

Jane Koplow
Chairman

Social

"The major job of Social Committee this year was to sponsor two dances. The first, Sing-Sing Swing, was a mixer, and the second was Midwinter where Social collaborated with Finance. Though the committee's activities were limited, it has worked hard to provide students with the opportunity to get together and have a good time."

Lost And Found

"Though the membership is small this job is an important one. The members each work for a week in the office after school. At this time all articles not claimed were sold."

American Field Service

Walk together, talk together,
O ye people of the earth;
Then and only shall ye have peace.

"Through the American Field Service, 3,085 foreign students from 59 countries were brought to the United States this year to study in high schools. As a result I am here at Central--about 15,000 miles from my home in Prachuabkirikhan, Thailand, which is surrounded by mountains and the ocean.

I used to think that I would be lonely and homesick in America, but on the contrary when I came I found the friendliest people that I have ever met. Everywhere I go in school, even in class and study hall, people stop and say 'Hi' to me. It makes me proud and happy. This is not because I am a foreign student but because I share the students' responsibilities, likes, and dislikes.

When I go back to my country in July I will feel very sad that I have to leave everything behind--it makes me saddest when I realize that in a short time there will be no more Central, the school I have studied in during my year in America. Certainly there are some gifts that I will take home but the most valuable and important thing I will take with me is the understanding and the friendship that will last forever."

The Samples: Mr. Sample, Greg, Mrs. Sample, Claudia Dutra, Pete; Debby, Joan, Phoebe.

I enjoyed being at Central, feeling like all of you. I was very fortunate in living with such a marvelous family, the Samples, that really knew how to make this year completely happy and unforgettable for me.

This time I spent with you was much more than a simple year, it was a whole life, replete with new sensations and wonderful experiences. My best thanks to all of you."

Claudia Dutra

"Being an AFS student is the most marvelous experience one can have. Here we come, young people from all over the world, full of curiosity, eager to observe and learn. Being able to share a year with an American family puts us in contact with the intimate aspects of your life; the luggage we take home is composed of friendship, love, and understanding for the United States. For a while we were a part of America; forever we will keep the impressions we got and the lessons we learned. Even though today we have the most modern ways of communication, we still maintain a lack of contact between peoples and nations and this is the most important aspect of AFS--the approximation of culture by young people.

It's just great to be here! How wonderful was the first snow, the spectacle of the colorful trees; how much fun to watch football games (even without understanding them), to try (without success) to dance, to go tobogganing on a cold winter night or to cheer for Central at basketball games! I found the life in American school very exciting, so many activities, clubs, games; we get so close together that way! You can't imagine how much

Candy Counter

"The Candy Counter began operating under difficulties this year. It was moved near the Gym to accommodate the lunch-eaters, which made it impossible to sell candy after school, and lack of storage space made it necessary to purchase a metal cabinet, which threw us into the hole. It took us a few months to establish a profit, but the Candy Counter was able to get back on its feet."

"All-Central, a general service committee, concerned itself primarily with Dad's Night, a program for the fathers of the football team. The group is also responsible for the third floor bulletin board, and is trying to put up the Big 8 pennants which have been three years coming."

Mary Ellen Stoffels

Hospitality

"It is the duty of a Hospitality Committee member to give information to guests coming into Central. A student is assigned to sit at the information desk in front of the Aud ready to receive visitors. A new student is assigned for each period of the school day. In this way the members can study and still perform a service to the school."

Mr. Schurman and friends hard at work.

"The Madison Mirror is Central-University's own newspaper and is published fourteen times per school year. The Mirror has been in existence for almost fifty years. Few students who are not involved in its publication realize how much hard work goes into creating their newspaper. Hard work on the part of the staff and its advisor is required from the point assignments are given out until the finished product is distributed to the Central students in homerooms. The Mirror strives to be an informative but entertaining publication, and looks with pride on its years of service to Madison High, Central High, and now Madison Central-University."

"A yearbook should do more than crucify a school's students and faculty upon the printed page. Therefore in an informal manner the Tychoberahn has sought not only to record but to enlarge upon the events of the year, setting them in the personal perspective of a very few people. This is a subjective view of Central-University, true--but who can be objective about an institution which shapes him in so many ways? To us, this school is an educational laboratory, and hence it is from this point of view that we present this year at Central."

Debate

"MCU's daring and dynamic debaters have finished a second successful year of tournament competition. The 'A' team, consisting of Jim Cartwright and Dan Doyle, affirmative, and Susan Kinne and Dave Gaebler, negative, narrowly missed qualifying for the State Tournament after winning their Regional competition. Rick Somers, Levi Wood, Bill Hagness and other 'B' team members gained experience for next year as all worked at tournaments. "The main purpose of the Club is to train old and new members in the operation of school equipment, including the lighting board, movie projectors, and tape recorders."

This year the Club set up a system for testing and classifying the members in first, second, third, and fourth classes. This system is based on how much a member knows how to operate. Also, for the first time in the group's history the constitution was amended to permit girls to become members.

The 1965-66 officers were: Lee Feierabend, Vice-President, Bruce Orchard, Secretary, and Dave Gladstone, Dispatcher."

Ushers

"This year the Ushers' Club has been very active in keeping order at all home football and basketball games. We are sure that most MCU students attending these functions have noticed us doing our duty in our festive black ushers' jackets. We are thankful for the students' co-operation and their display of good behavior."

Steve Sasso
President

Usherettes

"Our main function in Usherettes is to help keep school activities organized. We serve as hostesses, helping people to find seats, passing out programs, and collecting tickets. We assist at "Go To School Night", concerts, plays, and the SWEA Teachers' Convention (we are paid 75¢ an hour, one third of which goes to the group for scholarships given to seniors in June). Our other duties are done at PTA and school auditorium programs. All of these functions are done under the guidance and supervision of our advisor, Miss Hasse."

Ski Club

"In its first active year, Ski Club took a semester-break trip to Indianhead, Michigan. Despite -35° weather, we had a good time. Plans were made for other trips. In this way Ski Club has tried to carry out its purpose of giving those who don't get a chance to take trips a better opportunity to ski. On the whole our club has been very successful."

Hi-Y

"Unlike most fraternities, the Central Hi-Y is open to anyone who represents the ideals of the club. Hi-Y is a service organization that devotes some time each year to helping the community. Also our club tries to bring guys from each class together to get to know one another and have fun! I'd say that fun and the accomplishment felt after completing a service project are the backbone of this club."

PAGES OF THE PAST

Homecoming 1965

The Homecoming weekend opened with the presentation of the Court in the Aud. . .

and continued as Paul Schwengel set the Homecoming bonfire Friday night. Float-building went madly on at Breeze Stevens.

Next day, with work completed, the game against Janesville brought defeat but no disorder.

English came in for punishment as the floats paraded at halftime. Some partisan seniors called the judges "stinkers" when Homerooms 417 and 425 won the senior float contest by claiming "We'll scent 'em home."

The parade of the Court and a fireworks display climaxed the halftime ceremonies more formally....

And following the game, students returned to the YMCA for the Hi-Y sponsored Homecoming Dance, led by the 1965 Court of Honor.

Midwinter 1966

The annual Midwinter Dance, a joint effort of the Social and Finance Committees of student Council, took as its theme "Basin Street". Music was provided by Bill and the Bachelors-- we are told--how 'bout it, Bill?

Despite the usual financial loss, the pervasive atmosphere made the dance a general success.

Although the main objective of our sports teams is, of course, to win athletic contests, the sports program at Central seeks out and achieves many other goals. Boosting school spirit, and building character in the athletes are just a few of these goals. The fact that many times goes unrecognized is that, for every one hour that a boy plays in a game, he probably puts in fifteen hours in after school practice sessions. Our athletes and our coaches have given us 100% effort throughout the year, and the staff of the TYCHOBERAHN takes this opportunity to thank them for their untiring effort.

Basketball

The 1965-66 basketball season was a disappointing one for the Central varsity in terms of the won and lost record. With five returning lettermen, the team was able to gain only five victories in Big Eight play. There was one bright spot, however, in the form of the stellar play of Bill Bissett. Bill was the leading scorer in the Big Eight and he gained All-City and All-Big Eight team berths.

This year, M.C.U.'s wrestling team had a rewarding season. Although we won only one dual match, there were outstanding individual performances. Rich Bennett, this year's captain, won first place in the Madison Invitational Tournament, the Big Eight Tournament, and the Regional and Sectional Tournaments. He went to the State Tournament, and finished the season with a 20-2 record. M.C.U. advanced five wrestlers to the Sectional Tournament, taking second place in the team standings, and three wrestlers to the State Tournament including Ted Mita, Crawford Henderson, and Rich Bennett.

M.C.U.'s hockey team finished its first winning season in three years by compiling a record of six wins and four losses.

Seven seniors carried the greatest responsibility this year. Gary Repsumer, Tom Doyle, Randy Kneebone, Bob Hughes, Joe Fedele, Harry Culp, and Pat Tague were the seniors who finished the season. Fine play by juniors George Hughes and Dennis Grundahl contributed to the success of the team, and an outstanding contribution was made by the team's only sophomore, John Jordan.

JUNIOR HIGH

Junior High

The Junior High mind, properly trained and equipped with knowledge, can accomplish great things for good.

All of us should work to give and to get this proper training for those so full of enthusiasm.

Homer Winger Principal

Junior High is a microcosm--an entity attached to Central-University yet separate in itself.

Like raw materials, not yet through with their training, the junior high students still have much to absorb from it and, ultimately, from Central-University as well.

Kathy-

We had a lot fun fooling around in school.
Thanks for the advice on my program & plenty of good sound conversation.
Hope you have a lot of luck in nursing. You are a real sweet kid.

Bob

Kathy,
I took a while, but I finally got a chance to get to know you. Thank to our fifth hour chem.
sessions this was made possible.
I hope my "prophesizing" comes true for you are one person who really deserves something for many people to hold on to. Maybe this summer we can get together, to work in all you know I don't — Best of

To the greatest philosopher I know.
You're a real great kid and we've had lots fun together. I'll see you during this.

 fun together. Good luck I'll see you sometime during this summer.
 — Marilyn —

I shore has been great knowing you from that sophomore study hall to that 6th higher class. I wish you the greatest luck in nursing. Stay the great girl you are.

You are,
Kathy
It has really been fun having you in Econ. this semester.
Always stay the sweet way you are now. Good luck in the future years.
Friends always,
Shirley

17thly.
 Haven't it been fun that last Experiment. We had fun in 333 + in that class.
 Best of luck in your education. Maybe we'll see each other sometime.
 Best Wishes

to know you this year I wish the luck in your nursing career. Off to very the subject of this book on you keep your smiles hard to right (K-HA-HA) on I'll look very very successful if you keep your book very and sincere personality. I'll look very forward too seeing after Graduation

Kathy;

I have this horrible feeling that I flunked my Econ exam. Judging from your paper, you're an economic genius! Sob!

C'est la vie. Lots of luck in the future, and when you're a laundress, remember your old friend who probably be on Carnegie Stage by then - or Vice Versa?

Economic Idiot

Kathy,
We made it 6 Good luck in everything you do in the future -

Angie

Kathy I love you so much I hope you feel the same way about me. I was lucky to have you. I hope you have a good future.

Meredith

Kathy, I missed
you this last semester
in my favorite class
Chemistry - We-e-e
I didn't have anyone to help me with those idiotic problems. Well it's been nice knowing you this year. Lots of luck in the future Marcie

Kathy,
Thank you for the nice time we spend together in gym. You would never believe how happy I was to be your tennis partner. You are a very fine person, me day I know that you are going to be famous! I'll remember you as one of my best friends this year.
Love always Marcie.

Like a bunch of nuts, all sign my soon
name to your yearbook
I don't know, but I'll not even remember any of us. But wishes anyway
